1. The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was the cold. It was a sharp contrast to the warm blanket I had been sitting under. I looked around, trying to get my bearings. The street was empty, the only sound being the distant hum of traffic. I felt a little disoriented, but I knew I had to keep moving. I started walking, my feet hitting the cold pavement. The air was crisp, almost invigorating. I took a deep breath, feeling the cold air fill my lungs. I was alone, but I didn't feel lonely. I was just a person walking through a quiet city street. The sun was low in the sky, casting long shadows. I felt a sense of peace, a moment of stillness in a busy world. I was just a person, walking, feeling the cold, and knowing that I was exactly where I needed to be.
